PRESS RELEASE

Ministry of Rural Transformation, Community Development, Labour and Local Government Launches Website

Belmopan. September 22, 2021. 2:50 p.m.

On September 20, 2021, the Ministry of Rural Transformation, Community Development, Labour and Local Government officially launched its redesigned website. The new website will deliver all the critical services under the ministry's mandate in a faster, more user-friendly, efficient and easier-to-navigate format.

The goal of this new website is to provide users with a portal that serves as a central hub for the departments and important services like the Temporary Employment Permit system (TEP) and the Employment Services System (ESS). The website offers reliable functionality by providing information and data for labour, industrial relations, water systems, local governance, community development and legislations.

A newly added feature is the searchable question box of frequently asked questions. The pop-up box provides quick information to users. The site also contains integrated social media buttons for the ministry's Facebook and Instagram pages to foster improved communication with the public. The ministry will be constantly updating content with more online services and databases, helpful information, press releases, videos and photos.

The ministry expresses its thanks to the International Organization for Migration (IOM) for providing the funding for the upgraded website and Global IT Solutions for creating and designing the website to meet the requirements and standards of the ministry.

The website can be accessed using any of the domain names:
